There was stiff fighting today, Crown Prince Rupprecht having urried up part of his diminishing reserves to try to check the retirement of the armies of Gens. Von der Marwitz and Hutier. The shelling of the bridge here is a serious matter for the enemy, as bombs from the air are continually being dropped by British airplanes from a low altitude at the bridges in the Peronne district. This bombing has been going on day and night since the battle began, forcing the Gernans to divert their transport, so that the general movement was southeast. operating off the Middle Atlantic Coast overcame six men in the Coast Guard station and lighthouse on Smith's Isand, North Carolina, Saturday evening, the Navy Department was advised today by the commandant of the Sixth Naval District.

If the gas attack were deliberate, as most officials believed, it constitutes a new and ingenious form of "frightfulness," and, so far as has been reported, was the first effort of the German raiders to harm persons or property on American shores. The gas was said by the con mandant of the Coast Guard sta-tion to have much the same effect day Secretary Daniels said he be-tion to have much the same effect as the mustard gas used by the Germans on the western front. The men were laid out for mose than half an hour, but apparently suffered no serious after-effects.

The dispatch relating to the gas attack was one of a series concerning German submarine warfare off the Atlantic Coast received during the day by the Navy Department. One told of an attack on a submarine 100 miles east of the Virginia coast by an American destroyer, which discharged seventeen depth charges where the raider was seen to submerge. The result of the attack was not determined, but after oil had appeared on the surface of the water two hombs were dropped on the spot, and the submarine was not seen again.

Sinking of the British steamer Penistone of 4138 gross tons, in New England waters, near where ten fishling smacks were destroyed Sunday, silso was reported to the Navy Department during the day. The former was torpedoed Sunday, with the fate of her crew still undetermined, while the latter was destroyed by bombs August 8, and her crew later rescued by passing ships.

Still another dispatch said that four survivors of the fishing schooner Katle Paimer landed at New Bedford, Mass., reported that they had been taken aboard the submarine, the commander of which boasted that he was equipped to remain in American waters for six months if he desired.

The submarine was described by the men as being about 200 feet long, with a conning tower fifteen feet high, and mounting one gun. The raider carried a crew of sixty men, according to the survivors, who were held aboard the submarine for a time, and later set adrift in a dory. The report of this incident ends with the estatement that the pilot died in a hospital shortly after relating his experiences.

A British two-seater shot down two enemy machines. The pilot was badly wounded and feil across his controls. The observer secured his comrade's body and managed to get control of the machine. He brought it to earth where it crashed, but both the occupants escaped death.

Another pilot started for home wounded. When ten feet above the ground inside his own lines, he collapsed from loss of blood.

There are dozens of thrilling tales of how machine after machine, skimming close to the ground, fired point blank inte the bodles of enemy troops, killing a great many, despite the fire from the ground, and how they wiped out the crews of the enemy machine guns holding up the; Allied advance. They also effectively attacked the boorly constructed German tanks before they ever had a chance to get into action. IN THE SIERRAS,

Deputies of the Fish and Game Commission on duty in the Sierras have covered much deer country in the last month looking out to see that the rights of the law-abiding sportsman are protected by preventing "sooner" shooting. These wardens have reported quite unanimously, two conditions certain to contribute very greatly to the already marked popularity of this wonderful outing country during the season so soon to open. For one thing, a great deal of evidence is being uncovered in proof that the programme of wise laws well enforced through co-operation of State and Federal officers, is appreciably increasing the deer in most of their former strongholds. Some deputies say deer are gaining noticeably throughout the entire Sierras. Another feature they call attention to without exception, is the marked superfority of the stream and lake fishing over any previous season. For years the Fish and Game Commission has pursued the policy of increasingly heavy annual plantings to bring up waters suitable to the varicus kinds of trout, each being put in the place best sdapted to it. The combination of this work with a particularly favorable season for the angler owing to lower water than usual has brought quite the finest usual has brought quite the finess fly-fishing the Sierras have ever shown, east as well as west of their alone is enough to assure a most enjoyable vacation wherein fish enjoyable vacation wherein fish plays the ultimate possible part in the camp dietary; but a heavy crop of deves all through the State is now in season in the San Joaquin Valley and Western Sierras also, adding with prime venison a combination certain to keep the camp pot boilingly busy with the choicest foods known—the wild meats that wax fat without labor or expensive feeding. It is safe to say the bacon ration of camping parties may be curtailed this season in certainty of substituting game for the salted telly of pig.

Hunters whose time comes in September will find a wider range of good things awaiting their guns, for squirrels, apparently on the increase in the Sierras, will come into season with the deer and the doves crease in the Sierras, will come into season with the deer and the doves in Fish and Game District No. 4. This takes in the lower end of the State from Ventura and Kern lines south, and includes also the Eastern Sierras of Mone and Inyo counties. Grouse season opens September 15.

Native sons, inclined to scoff at squirrelz, little realize the attraction inherent in this heavy present crop of the bushy-tailed "timber grays" so reminiscent of boyhood days in eastern wood-lots, calling to the hunter across the years with fondest memory of their gameness and tastiness, good here as everywhere else. Two or three are a delicious fry, equally choice in the stew; and the "mulligans" a camp cookery expert can construct—or should we say contrive—from a venion joint, a couple of squirrels, a few doves or a pair of grouse—but why add further to the burdens of the poor cusses who can't go for a couple of weeks?

An order effective immediately and applying to all lines under government control was issued. Inasmuch as the sale of liquor on trains or at stations already has abolished in many States by law or by voluntary action of most railroad companies, the order is not expected to actually curtail liquor sales to any

It Keeps the Engine Young!

Experts agree in recommending ZERO-LENE because it keeps the engine young-full-powered, smooth-running and econom-ical in fuel and oil consumption.

The majority of motorists are now using ZEROLENE, because they have learned by experience that there is no better oil to be had.

Correctly refined from selected California asphalt-base crude, ZEROLENE gives per-fect lubrication with less wear and less carbon deposit. Less wear because ZERO-LENE keeps its lubricating body at cylinder heat. Less carbon because, being made from asphalt-base crude, it burns clean and goes out with exhaust.

ZEROLENE is the correct oil for all types of automobile engines. It is the correct off for your automobile. Get our inbrication

When we get around to it we will probably find that a censorship of censors is needful thing.

Being able to stand up and talk to ar audience is not so much of a gift as being able to know when to sit down.

HANDY TO HAVE.

The reason why the Crown Prince had two wings to his army seems deliciously simple. He wanted them to fly with.

A NOTHER FAILURE.

The efforts of union labor organizers to unionize the platform men of the Los angeles Railway proved, as the old school orator used to say, "futile and abortive." The agitators now understand that it is possible for a man to work on a yellow line and still be true blue.

THE DIFFERENCE. Gen. Ferdinand Foch has said: "Every soldier must feel himself in communication with his general and must never be per-mitted to consider himself a mere pawn to be moved at the whim or mercy of an un known power." That is entirely different from the Potsdam strategy, but there is a feeling that it makes for a more responsible and intelligent army and one that in the finals must prevail. A machine is less powerful than the thought behind it, and a Prench soldier is a thought instead of a cog in a machine.

UFFRAGE IN ENGLAND. Though England of late has shown much gratitude and respect for women, and praised them to their faces, a decision been handed down by the British courts that prevents women from running for Parliament. Votes and offices for women must come ultimately; even in England. There is no evading it. From the day Eve tant throat, women have got, sooner or er, whatever their hearts were set on. Any married man is competent to bear testimony on that point.

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY. These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country; but he that stands it now deserves the love and thanks of man and woman."

Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered; yet we have this consolation with us that the harder the conflict the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap we esteem too lightly. Tis dearness n knows how to set a proper price n its goods; and it would be strange inhould not be highly rated. Germany has to enforce her tyranny and sustain the asrule the world. Only an infidel could lieve that God has relinquished his gov ent and given it up to a comm er and highwayman as William Hohenern has proved himself to be.

THE TRIUMPH OVER AIR. A dozen years ago men, wise men, were saying that man would never learn to fly. It was contrary to nature and the laws of gravitation, and the more plous were not re but it was literally trying to fly in the of other faith. Da Vinci died four hundred years ago with "Man will learn to fly" on his s and the great artist left in his garret a heap of wings and wires with which he had experimented on serial navigation. War has developed in four years an evolu-tion in flying that would normally have red a half century, if not more, of invention and experiment. Flying has become ally safe. When the war is over this great means of transportation will not be cities airplanes carry mails. The need of rting enormous weights of bombs and mans has developed a type of machine that can be adapted for express, and perhaps freight purposes. The great dem of transportation is speed; and this the air planes supply as no other means of locomo may reasonably look forward to great fleets of airplanes that will appear as haps most importantly, as means of travel. The automobile may never be displaced; railroads will probably endure as the arteries of commerce for generations; but will not discard it or keep it for war uses only. Now, as it is the cheapness and rapidity of transportation that very directly affect the cost of products, one may expect that airplanes will have much to do with restoring the "cost of living" to something a pre-war basis; and in this respect will be of incalculable benefit to the pocketbook of society in general,

ROTTEN FINANCES OF GERMANY. Germany's finances have been shake rom the masthead to the keel by the re-

The same American bullets that took the life blood of so many German soldiers also punctured the German money bags in a very serious way.

During this war the Central Powers have een operating on a false financial basis. They have literally capitalized hope. If hope fails, the whole system must go down with a thud.

Even to American correspondents, before we were in it, German financiers frankly admitted this condition.

According to their candid admissions the German Empire was drawing from an imaginary bank account. The idea was that some conquered nation — preferably the United States—was to make good by indem-

America was undoubtedly invited into the war with cold deliberation. After the Russian collapse the Kaiser felt absolutely certain of victory over France and England. He was dubious of their ability to pay the big indemnity necessary to make good Germany's war bills. Wherefore he brought America into it very largely with the idea of having someone from whom to collect the Germany built financially upon this struc ure of hope with considerable ingenuity. Visitors from neutral countries have always been staggered at the apparent plen! tude of cash in Germany. The banks were overflowing with it. The war loans were all subscribed with ease as soon as offered. This apparent prosperity was and is fic-titious. Germany appears to have a lot of money; but she has not

The system by which this financial camou flage is maintained is something like this: The city of Berlin, for instance, has been constructing, during the period of the war, a other public enterprises. The city of Leipzig, since the war began, has built a large and magnificent public library, a very handsome and expensive municipal bath-house, three great public schools, the cheapest of which cost 750,000 marks. In addition to this it has spent 8,000,000 marks in changing the course of a river that flows through the city.

This would seem to indicate that Leinzig has more money than it knows what to do with-especially as the Leipzig banks are so full of money that, during the summer of 1915, it was being loaned at 4 per cent.

CRITICAL examination of the prem-A ises shows, however, an exceedingly perilous and dangerous condition of Snances. Germany's overseas trade, having been cut off, it goes without saying that all her money must remain at home. The banks, having considerable of this surplus on hand, are prepared to buy municipal bonds with the money that formerly went into overseas

The banks buy the bonds. With the bond library. As a result of this building flurry jobs are plentiful. Wages are good. As the result of good wages the bank de posits are heavy. As the result of heavy bank deposits the banks have again a surplus of money with which to buy more bonds.

And so it goes in a financial circle. More public works; more wages; more bank deposits; more bond money; more public works, etc., etc., etc. What appears to be a great deal of money changing hands is, in reality, the same old silver mark piece rushing around and around in a frantic cir-

The danger of the system is easy to see. ome day there comes the report of a crushing defeat in France. Hans says to his good wife Gretchen:

"Gretchen, I think maybe we don't put our wages in the bank this week. She looks pretty bad for the Crown Prince; Ja?" So the money doesn't go into the bank

With the falling off of deposits the bank stammers and hesitates and decides not to buy the next municipal bonds; the municiwork on the new library building. Hans finds his wages stopped.

In other words, the appearance of prosperity is only maintained by keeping the money in constant motion. As soon as it stops the whole structure falls.

It is literally true, as stated above, that the German Empire is working on capital obtained by converting hope of victory in money. As soon as the hope vanishes the Germany is living at the present time on the financial principle of Mark Twain's village where the inhabitants made a living by taking in each other's washing.

The German Empire has been living the life of a remittance man who assures his creditors that his rich Uncle Sam will come along with the money to make good the

To a correspondent of The Times then in Europe one of the biggest financial leaders of Saxony made this bitter and prophetic statement as long ago as 1915: "If we do not win a victory great enough to collect indemnity from some other country, then I can only pray that God will give us courage to bear what is in store for us.'

HE German leaders perceive this tragic condition very clearly.

Recent events show plainly that they realze their mistake in bringing in America to make her pay the bills. That hope has been swept away by the gallantry of the Yanks t Chateau Thierry and Fere-en-Tardenois.

The only shred of hope left in the German heart lies in another direction. The Germans are trying frantically to get their financial claws firmly into Russia before

They realize with stark and staring clear ness that after the war they are due to be commercial pariahs. It will be a long time before any other country will consent to barter with them. This was had enough, but three of them made the worse when they began to concentrate their efforts against one of their quartette rather than running upon an anti-Randall track.

Many leading Republicans soon grasped the point that it would be folly to split the rote of their party and decided that of the four candidates Montaville Flowers of Mon was the most formidable. Soon sentiment in favor of him began to crystallize and today he is looked upon as the only candidate who has a chance to beat the

The record of Randall in Congress is vulnerable and it will be spread before the people of the Ninth District. Do you, Mr Mushet do you, Mr. Reagan, do you, Mr. Odell, desire to play into Randall's hands!

The nomination of Joe Folk as United States Senator to succeed Hon, Xenopho Wilfey, who was appointed by Gov. Gardner to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William J. "THE GERMAN HIVE."
Oliver Wendell Holmes, in his inomparable poem, "The Deacon's Masterplece," better known to the world as the 'One Hoss Shay," characterizes George the from the German hive."

The royal families preceding the House of Hanover certainly had their faults. Dickens declared, "The Stuarts were public nuisances," but they had at least one it-they were thoroughly English. Therefore the people did not take kindly to the representatives of the "German hive."

Sophia, granddaughter of James the First, had married the Elector of Hanover, an unimportant province in the northern part When Queen Anne died, in 1714, as there was no other heir to the the Second, George Louis, Elector of Hanover and son of Sophia, was made King of England with the title George I. He most thoroughly deserved the epithet given to his son, George II, "Snuffy old drone from the German hive." He could not speak English when he came to the throne and, consequently, he was not well received by the English people. To him the Province of Hanover was of more importance than Engand and, as a natural consequence, he inservances as possible, traces of which may still be found in England and her colonies. Among other things is the pronunciation of the letter "z" as "zed," and the long "l" in the words "either" and "neither." A pupil of one of the finest wirl's seminaries in Canada told the present writer that her teacher never allowed these pronunciation in her school, because they were not English, but German, and that they had been Introduced by Albert, the Prince Consort It is more likely that they were foisted upon the English people by the House of lanover, unfortunately there was no Pepys in those days, and, later on, simply emphi sized by the German Albert.

Be this as it may, the third representative of the "German hive," George III, unureheads, determined to obey his mother's injunction and "be King." Had he not been obstinate and foolhardy, deaf to all reasoning and persuasion from his counrevolution. More than all, the people of this great American nation would not have carried for nearly a century and a half a resentment toward the English people which should long ago have been placed upon the product of the "German hive," the King who was so determined to "be King" that he thought no sacrifice too great in blood and treasure to preserve the sem blance of his authority.

Surely the dwellers on this planet have had evidence enough of the unreasonable pertinacity of the Germans and their abso lute disregard of other people's rights. It is now high time that we should be done with this "German hive." Let it be transferred soon to a small corner of Central Europe, where the dwellers therein shall be gradually absorbed by other nations and their language become dead and forgotten

Unfortunately, in the interests of a faithful record of facts, the "German hive," with its great malicious military drone, Kaiser William, must be mentioned in the annals of history; but it will only be with detesta tion and abhorrence.

Down out of cloud and into the sunlight came thousands of fluttering things which appeared no larger than butterflies. They descended like the falling leaves of autumn, swirling about in midair as caught by a vagrant gust of wind. As they approached nearer they grew to the size of handbills, such as you some-times find on your front porch an-nouncing a "Bankrupt Sale" or a precinct political meeting. The air seemed filled with them. They futtered down into an area where French and American troops were brigaded together. The Boche, having failed in his military drive, had started a peace offensive. Somewhere up in that cloud saddled in an airplane was an enemy propagandist seeking to sow discord among the Allies. These circulars were printed in French, and were intended particularly for the Poilus. Apparently, the Germans did not know of the presence of our men in this sector. But some of our soldiers were familiar enough with the French language to get the drift of the Kalser's printed argument.

The circular dwelt at considerable length on the ancient differences be-tween France and England, resorting to the usual Hun tactics of trying to arouse old prejudices, and recited a list of uncomplimentary remarks which France's neighbor cross the Channel is alleged to have made, but failed to mentio said utterances were expressed several hundred years before the pres-ent war started. FEDERAL BAN ON NAILS HALTS BUILDING PLAN.

MAY CLASS NEW LONG BEACH CHAMBER HOME AS NONESSENTIAL

ILOCAL CORRESPONDENCE. LONG BEACH, Aug. 12.-Beause of the governmental ban placed n the sale of nails for any purpose not considered absclutely essential, the erection of the proposed new Chamber of Commerce building for this city is being held up.

The test of whether a building project is essential is considered from the standpoint of its relation to winning the war, and the Federal authorities may regard the proposed new chamber headquarters, although sorely needed because of the present inadequate offices, as not necessary at this time, according to E. J. Gilletté, chairman of the Building Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, who has submitted a report on the subject to the directors of the boost organiza-

Secretary Lynn W. Ballard ex presses the opinion, however, that ought not to be difficult to persuad an open-minded official that nails used in building the new Chamber of Commerce structure, to house an organization so active in war work, serve a more patriotic object than those driven in the construction of many other types of building per-mitted by the government.
